

LANDSCAPED Art

IMPRESSIONS: RUHI SINGH

An experienced designer, blogger and photographer, Paddy Pike is known to constantly search for the next undiscovered creation. His design Island Cabinet has originated from the desire to push boundaries between design and artistic expression. For him, the product should interact with the user by making them think about how and why a piece was made. While doing his research for Island Cabinet, he realised that wood can be transformed into any sublime form with special treatment. The cabinet takes inspiration from the French Polynesian Island of Bora Bora as it has a unique landscape, which is formed from an extinct volcano surrounded by a lagoon and a barrier reef.
